The launch of Indian Journal of Novel Drug Delivery (IJNDD)

Dear professional colleagues, research scholars and fellow students.

It's a great pleasure and privilege for me to introduce the first publication of our Indian Journal of Novel Drug Delivery (IJNDD), which is an official quarterly peer-reviewed publication of Karnataka Education and Scientific Society, Hubli, INDIA.

This first issue sets the tone for the systematic and broad scope of the journal with the diversity of topics in the field of drug delivery covered by pioneers, research scholars and eminent writers.

The Journal covers a wide variety of topics pertinent to the field of novel drug delivery. This Journal overviews a variety of aspects, in addition to the practical advice offered by some writers. The basic purpose in bringing out this journal was to develop the first in-depth resource that addresses practical approaches from a drug delivery perspective. It also facilitates an opportunity for readers to explore necessary skills to optimize pharmaceutical formulations. A strong aspect of the journal is that it is practical and it encourages self-discovery and skill- development in the field. Therefore the authors of this volume include some of the most gifted and prominent contributors to the field of pharmacy with their broad ranging intellect, in depth theoretical insight, and devotion towards their field of study which points the readers in a new and promising direction. The journal attempts to present a concise but complete exposition of the theory, practice and research related to drug delivery systems.

As it is said "All glory comes from daring to begin" and "A journey of thousand miles must begin with a single step", we have made a beginning and hopefully will make a mark in our profession of pharmacy through our good work and its publication.

On behalf of the Editorial Board, I request you all to patronize and encourage this beginning with valuable contributions and constructive criticism to perpetuate this publication and to help us attain our objectives.
